eBook Publishing Classes

Orlando Public Library, Albertson Room

Thursday, February 23, 6 p.m.

Aspiring authors and wannabe writers are invited to join the Library's eBook Publishing series. This eight-week interactive workshop is designed to help local authors and writers with self-publishing their manuscript as an eBook. The workshop will be held at the Orlando Public Library on Thursdays beginning February 23 and will be led by Rik Feeney of PublishingSuccessOnline.com. Feeney, author of Writing Books for Fun, Fame & Fortune! And Publishing for Penny-Pinchers, earned a Bachelor of Arts in Writing and Literature from Vermont College of Norwich University and frequently presents seminars at writers' conferences throughout the Southeast. Participants are encouraged to take Library computer classes in Word, Photoshop, Webpage Designs and business-related classes. To register for this program, please call 407.835.7481.

Information and computer class schedules can be found at www.ocls.info/computerclasses. For more information on Rik Feeney, visit www.PublishingSuccessOnline.com.
