Books & Beyond is a monthly library news and information publication sponsored by the Friends of the Orange County Library System.
A DOUBLE DOSE OF ANNIVERSARIES THIS MONTH

Can you believe the Dorothy Lumley Melrose Center for Technology, Innovation & Creativity is already a year old? The center will celebrate its first anniversary on Saturday, February 7 with an open house. If you haven’t been to the center, this is your opportunity to experience it first hand with a day of demos and interactive fun.

And the Melrose Center’s anniversary is one of two OCLS is celebrating this month. The Alafaya Branch Library will get the party started at its 15th anniversary event on Sunday, February 1 at 2 p.m. There’s lots to celebrate and we hope to see you there!

February is also Black History Month and the library has a host of programs to commemorate the occasion. The rundown includes a very special Second Saturday titled What I Didn’t Learn in School—An Intro to Unknown African American History. This will be offered on Saturday, February 14 at 11 a.m. at the Orlando Public Library. Dr. Naima Johnston Bush will highlight aspects of African American history that are often overlooked. Several other Black History Month programs will be offered in February. Turn to pages 12 and 13 to find one near you.

Genealogy and Family History Crafts
West Oaks Branch Saturday, February 14, 2:30 p.m.
Learn how to turn your genealogy research and artifacts into fun crafts to share and treasure with family and friends.

With the move of the library’s genealogy collection to the renovated West Oaks Branch & Genealogy Center, neighboring communities have the ability to access records and documents previously located further away. We took this transitional time as an opportunity to speak to the officers and members of the Central Florida Chapter of the African American Historical & Genealogical Society (AAHGS).

President Kevin Mitchell says the genealogy collection, including census data, records indexes, city directories and more, makes the library an attractive place for their group. “I started coming here in middle school to research with my mother. [Learning] things that my mother didn’t know about our family allowed us to develop a family history and family stories,” said AAHGS member Shaunie Thompson.

Reference staff are available to assist with online services, books, records and documents that can help in beginning or furthering genealogy research. The library has free Five Generation Pedigree charts to get you started in your research. In addition, programs are offered at the West Oaks Branch & Genealogy Center about the resources available. Check dates and times on our online calendar to see which ones fit your schedule.

SAVE THE DATE
The African American Historical & Genealogical Society will be at the West Oaks Branch & Genealogy Center on Saturday, April 11 at 10:15 a.m. Join the group for a tour of the Genealogy Department and an introduction to genealogy research.

“I started coming here in middle school to research with my mother. [Learning] things that my mother didn’t know about our family allowed us to develop a family history and family stories.” - AAHGS member Shaunie Thompson

Extend Your Screen
Some tasks are easier done when viewing multiple windows simultaneously. If you have an extra monitor, you can extend your desktop to give more viewable space. Once you connect the extra monitor’s cable to your PC or laptop, complete the following steps:

• Click on Start > Control Panel > Appearance and Personalization > Adjust Screen Resolution

• Click the drop down list next to “Multiple displays” then select “Extend these displays” and click “OK.”

• Once extended, click on an open window’s title bar and drag to the other screen.
