All year long, kids look forward to summer. For just a few months, they’re free from tests and homework and long days in the classroom. For too many kids, though, that time away from school leads to what educators call ‘summer slide,’ a phenomenon in which students who don’t continue to exercise their brains during summer fail to retain some of what they learned during the school year.

We’ve got the perfect solution for that – our annual Summer Reading Program, which kicks off on June 11 and offers kids, tweens and teens a summer full of fun, educational and entertaining events, camps and classes that will keep their bodies and minds active all summer long.

We have a fantastic schedule packed with activities this year, too. Local radio station Mix 105.1 FM will get our Summer Reading Party started with music, games, prizes and more at all of our library branches, young adult author Kate DiCamillo will visit the Orlando Public Library on June 23 for a reading and book signing (see our interview with Kate on page 25), and we’ve got a slate of cool summer camps where kids can learn about coding, robotics, animation and more. You’ll find many of them listed in this newsletter, but you can get the full list of events and activities at our website, ocls.info/srp.

Register soon – camps and classes fill up quickly!

Since summer reading isn’t just for kids, we’ve also organized a Summer Reading Program for Adults. Everybody is invited to read books, attend library events and journal their participation for a chance to win some great prizes, including gift certificates to local stores.

Videos – Summer Reading Program 2016
On your mark, get set... READ! Join us this summer for weekly special events featuring fitness, wellness, science, animals, arts and storytelling. For more information, visit ocls.info/srpkids or call 407.835.7323!
It’s been more than a decade since the Orange County Library System updated its website. Over the years, the homepage has had some tweaks and slight variations, but for the most part, while other websites have grown and evolved, our site has remained basically the same. So we’re very excited to announce that we officially launched the newly designed ocls.info on May 9! Here are some of the things that make the new site special:

THE NEW SITE IS FULLY RESPONSIVE

This is very exciting because it means the site automatically adjusts to fit whatever device a visitor is using. Website visitors can view the same content on their phones or tablets that they see when browsing on desktop computers.

WE’RE READY FOR EVOLUTION

Our new site uses a flexible open-source content management system called Drupal as its foundation. Drupal is something we can develop and enhance as needed to keep the site current and modern as the needs of our library system and its patrons change. We will make it a point to engage the community for feedback, and we can make revisions to the site more quickly than we ever could before. That means that as OCLS and its audience grows, our site can evolve with it.

YOU HELPED US MAKE THIS SITE

A community of beta testers consisting of Orange County Library System patrons and library staff played a key role in the decisions that went into the development of the new site. Our beta testers completed usability tasks such as card sorting, tree testing, wireframe testing and responding to surveys. The input helped determine what was important to include in the new site, how content was grouped, how the site was structured and what labels we used for navigation. Thank you to everyone who helped!

THE NEW SITE ALLOWS USERS TO DISCOVER SOMETHING NEW

The new website conveys a sense of excitement and discovery for the amazing services and products the Orange County Library System has to offer. All of the great content that you have used over the years is still accessible through the new website, but we’ve given you ways to find it that better match how you discover content on other popular sites. This makes it easier to find things you may not have noticed before.
Retirement is not just about finances and budgets. Learn when to begin planning for the “other” part of retirement—and how to conduct a self-assessment to discover what is important to you and the goals you want to achieve in the future. Then learn to create and implement this plan. This seminar is part of the LIFE Information for Elders series presented by the OCLS and Orange County’s Commission on Aging. Call 407.836.7446 or officeonaging@ocfl.net to register. A small lunch is provided to the first 50 people who register. A very brief discussion of sources that are important pieces of information for your family history but don’t know where to begin? This event will introduce you to genealogical terms and techniques. Learn to complete an ancestor chart and how to garner information from living relatives and household sources. A very brief discussion of sources that can be used for family history research will also be covered.

What I Learned at the National Genealogical Society Annual Conference: Part 2
West Oaks Branch
Thursday, June 23, 6:30 p.m.
Genealogy Specialist Allison Ryall will discuss the programs she attended the 2016 National Genealogical Society (NGS) Annual Conference and share information about resources and research strategies.
This summer, the Orange County Library System will once again team up with Orange County Public Schools and the state Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services to offer the Summer BreakSpot Program, which provides children with free meals and a chance to participate in fun, educational programs at four library branches.

Monday through Friday, from June 13 through August 5, food trucks and buses will visit the library system’s Hiawassee, Edgewater, Chickasaw and South Trail branches to serve free lunches to kids 18 and under. Once kids have received their meals, they are invited inside the library to have lunch and participate in Summer Reading Program events.

Last year, the Summer BreakSpot program served more than 11,000 lunches to children at two Orange County library branches where the majority of the kids in the surrounding community are eligible for free or reduced-cost lunch. The program was so successful that two new library locations have been added this year so even more kids can participate.

According to the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services, more than a million Florida children who rely on free or reduced-price meals during the school year go hungry during the summer. Their families struggle to make ends meet and may be unable to afford three nutritious meals per day for their children. The Summer BreakSpot program at the library helps area families feed their kids’ bodies and minds with nutritious food and educational events at no cost.

Beginning June 13, a bus will serve lunch daily at the Hiawassee Branch, 7391 E. Colonial Drive from 11:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m., and at the South Trail Branch, 4600 S. Orange Blossom Trail from 1:15-2:15 p.m. A food truck will serve lunch daily at the Edgewater Branch, 5049 Edgewater Drive, from 11:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m., and at the Chickasaw Branch, 870 N. Chickasaw Trail, from 1:15-2:15 p.m.

For more information on Summer BreakSpot, visit summerfood/florida.org.

KATE DICAMILLO AUTHOR VISIT
Orlando Public Library Thursday, June 23, 6 p.m.

Newbery-award winning author and National Summer Reading Champion Kate DiCamillo will be here to read from and discuss her new book, Raymie Nightingale, set in Central Florida. DiCamillo is the author of Because of Winn-Dixie, Flora & Ulysses, The illuminating Adventures, The Tale of Despereaux and The Mysterious Journey of Edward Tulane. Seating is limited. Registration required.

On June 23, children’s author and summer reading champion Kate DiCamillo will do a reading and book signing at the Orlando Public Library. DiCamillo, whose new book, Raymie Nightingale, was published in April, took a few minutes to talk to us about growing up in Clermont, summer reading programs and some of her favorite books from childhood.

Mira: Your latest book, Raymie Nightingale, is about three girls who are planning to compete in Little Miss Central Florida Tire. You wrote that when you were young, you competed in the Little Miss Orange Blossom Contest. Tell us about it.

Kate: I have one very clear memory, and only one clear memory, and that is standing up on the stage and thinking, “I shouldn’t be here.” My mother has passed away, so I can’t ask her what she was thinking by having me up there. I was 8 years old and I was never pageant material.

Mira: Did you come back to Central Florida when you were working on this book, or did you write this from your memory?

Kate: I wrote it from my memory, though there was one point when I was working on it when I was in South Florida, and I remember walking across the grass at a school in Miami because St. Augustine grass is different than grass elsewhere—and I saw a mockingbird and thought, “Boy, I need this right now.” It was enough like home that I could feel like I was there. My best friend lives in Orlando and when I come down I’ll get to spend time afterwards just being there.

Mira: You are the Summer Reading Champion this year, and you’ve talked about how important libraries were for you growing up. Tell us about the library in Clermont where you grew up.

Kate: I can close my eyes and see it. It’s the Cooper Memorial Public Library, and when I was a kid it was just a little house that had been converted into a library, and I loved that library. I can still see it and see where I took the turn to go into the Children’s section. I was super lucky in that I had a mother who signed me up for the summer reading program so I could get prizes for something that I wanted to do anyway. I also remember my mother bringing me to the Orlando Public Library for their summer programs. There were movies in the summer and all the events for the summer, and we would drive straight down 50, so it was somewhat of a production to get there. My mom believed in libraries; bless her heart.

Mira: What are the books that you read as a child that have stayed with you?

Kate: I can rattle on forever on this: all of the Little House on the Prairie books; Beverly Cleary – I wasn’t quite the right age for the Ramona books, but the Mouse and the Motorcycle; I loved Stuart Little. I read all of the Nancy Drew and Hardy Boys books. There was a biography of George Washington Carver that I checked out all the time from the library. I checked it out so much that one time my mother was talking to the librarian and said, “Can we just buy it?” And she said, “Betty, you know it doesn’t work that way.”

Mira: If you could turn any book (yours or someone else’s) into a theme park or attraction, what would it be?

Kate: From the Mixed Up Files of Mrs. Basil E. Frankweiller. As a kid I loved that book, but I always loved putting books in other kids’ hands, and there were a couple of books that I knew I could give to people who didn’t necessarily like reading and they would like reading and they would say, “I can’t read, but I can’t read, but I can’t read, but I can’t read,” and this was one of them. Pippi Longstocking was another one of those. Come to think of it, Pippi would make a great amusement park too.
