Orlando-based producer Divinci visits the Melrose Center

Orlando, Fla. – On March 14, the Melrose Center hosts Divinci, producer and member of the hip-hop group Solillaquists of Sound, for a special live performance followed by a Q&A. This event celebrates the first monthly meeting of the Ableton User Group Orlando with Ableton Certified Trainer Steven Smith.

Ableton is a software company that creates production and performance programs such as Ableton Live and PUSH 2. Founded in 1999, their products have helped musicians and artists from around the world, including Divinci, who has worked with the likes of Grammy Award-winning legend Ms. Lauryn Hill, Nas, MF DOOM and more.

On March 14, Divinci will perform for the group, followed by a Q&A during which he will discuss his creative approach with various Ableton programs. Steven Smith will provide an in-depth demonstration of Ableton Live 10's new Wavetable synth.
