CFO Shoemaker briefed the Board about the budget for the month of August 2021.
He indicated that delivery costs will be higher due to the new book drops. He gave the Board an update regarding the two new branch projects. He stated that staff continue to meet with the County and the City every two weeks and they are preparing the two leases and have some edits to make. The City of Orlando’s Public Works Director, Alan Oyler, sent a draft RFP for review for the Lake Nona project. RFQ’s have been issued for architects for the Horizon West project and there is a nice group of architects interested and the plan is to bring the short list to the December Board Meeting. Additionally, the Construction Manager at Risk meeting was held and there were several interested firms that attended and the hope is to bring this short list to the December Board Meeting as well.
- 21-120 VI. Dashboard: August 2021
COO Powell reported that August started and ended with a focus on kids. It began with the most popular event in August with the virtual End of Summer Celebration hosted by the Youth Services Department. The event took place on August 7th and had 470 attendees participating in fun family activities and learning the winners of the Summer Reading Program grand prize giveaway. At the end of August, OCLS shared a post on several social media channels about homework help for children available with a library card, and it turned out to be a highly engaging and popular post. It received 941 engagements across all platforms, including 169 clicks through to the website and 66 shares from people who viewed the post. COO Powell also explained that OCLS is not able to transition to Wise at this time. The ILS and OPAC do not provide the level of functionality and configuration required by OCLS's customers and staff. OCLC is aware that OCLS is not establishing a go-live date at this time and that OCLS intends to stay on the project as an early adopter until a go-live can be accomplished. The next step is for OCLS is to notify Innovative Interfaces Inc., of its intent to renew the Sierra contract for another year. Further discussion ensued regarding the statistics that are down. He explained that the door counts are down as there are no in-person events or classes. He also mentioned that online virtual fatigue can be the reason that people are taking fewer online classes.

Director's Report

Since Covid does not seem to be abating, the Library's Staff Day will again be virtual. I know staff were looking forward to an in-person event, but COVID is taking its toll again this year.

Another casualty of COVID's hold on our community is Sunday hours. The Library will be delaying starting back Sunday hours until January 9, 2022.

September 15 through October 15 is Hispanic Heritage Month. Every year, OCLS marks the occasion with events, programs, presentations and exhibits that focus on Hispanic culture, art, food and literature. Some of the highlights this month include a bilingual performance by children's singer/songwriter Sonia de los Santos, a Cuisine Corner that will demonstrate how to make Puerto Rican alcapurrias, and a Mexican storytime for children. We also have an impressive art exhibition hanging on the first floor highlighting the work of Colombian artists Carlos Alberto Quintero and Alberto Gomez Gomez, both of whom draw inspiration from the roots of Latin American magical realism to create kaleidoscopic works drenched in expressive color and imagination.

This National Library Card Sign-up Month is already off to a strong start. On September 8, Main Circulation reported more online applications for juvenile cards than we've ever had at 128 new applications. On a normal day, we would usually see six to eight juvenile applications. We can attribute this success to our School Partnership Program, which is running a library card signup drive in partnership with Orange County Public Schools. We also saw a significant jump in online applications for adult applications – we had 101 on September 8th alone, which is twice what we usually see in a typical day. Thanks to our Information Desk staff for processing these new applications – they email each customer and mail the cards out by hand in a single day. It was a lot of work, and they do a great job!

OCLS was awarded a $5,000 Community Project Grant from Florida Humanities for the "Zora Neale Hurston: The Storyteller and Her Town" project. In addition to several virtual offerings, the project will also include a community talk on Hurston's life and the town of Eatonville followed by a walking tour of the town. Special thanks to Eatonville Branch Manager Sara Brown and Hiwassee Assistant Manager Selina Raghunath for all their work in applying for and winning this grant for the library system.
