FROM THE DIRECTOR

It’s well known that Mark Twain once said that the secret to getting ahead is getting started. But how do you even get started if you don’t know where to begin? One good place to start would be the library.

Say your goal is to build your savings so you can buy a new home or retire early. You know you need to develop new strategies for managing money, but where can you learn them? You can sign up for our six-week series, Personal Finance Using Morningstar, which shows you how to budget, invest, and make the most of the free Morningstar resources available to library cardholders. See page 13 of this magazine for details.

Do you have a personal goal to learn a second language to help you get ahead in the job market? We can help you get started there, too. Basic Spanish classes begin at our North Orange Branch this month, and Spanish from Zero happens at our Southeast Branch – see page 9 to learn more about these classes, or to find out about online language-learning resources you can access for free through our website.

For our youngest customers, we are always looking for ways to help them get a head start in life. That’s why we’re excited to announce that we’re expanding our programs that help kids learn basic skills needed to succeed in business. We’re already taking applications for our annual Children’s Business Fair, where young entrepreneurs can market and sell their products and business ideas, and in Spring 2020, we’ll launch a series of BizKids Clubs, which will teach kids to learn to write a business plan, market products, promote their ideas, and run a storefront. See page 24 to learn more about these exciting initiatives.

All of these resources, and so many more, are free for library cardholders. If you have a card, don’t delay – stop by your local branch or visit ocls.info to find out how the library can help you reach your goals. Don’t have a card? Well, there’s no better time than now to sign up or renew. It’s free and easy, and you can do it in person or online. Bring a friend to sign up for a card in September and we’ll even enter you in a prize drawing in honor of National Library Card Sign-up Month. See page 15 for all the details.

EXPERIENCE MORE OF ORLANDO WITH YOUR LIBRARY CARD
by Scottie Campbell, Marketing Specialist

You already know your library card means adventure. Dive into the pages of a book you’ve borrowed and you’re off to other worlds. Adventure, though, can be right around the corner and now Orange County Library System (OCLS) is going to help you find it with our Local Wanderer program. Largely inspired by New York Public Library’s Culture Pass, the program gives library cardholders access to cultural and entertainment offerings in our own backyard.

In creating our version of the program, we wanted to find a name that would convey the purpose of the project: to get Orlandoans to explore cultural offerings in their own backyard that they might not be aware of or might not otherwise be able to afford. Unsurprisingly, a high percentage of book nerds are library staff, so we were influenced by a poem in J. R. R. Tolkien’s The Lord of the Rings series, specifically the line: “Not all those who wander are lost…”

With your library card, you’ll be able to “check out” free admissions to arts and cultural experiences. To make this happen, OCLS has partnered with organizations such as Hard Rock Live, Orlando Science Center, Mennello Museum and Orlando Solar Bears, among others—with participants still being added.

“We are excited to team up with Orange County Library System on a program that opens up a world of possibilities,” said Glen Gentele, Director & CEO of Orlando Museum of Art. The museum was among the first to sign on to the program. “Simply put: the Local Wanderer initiative provides more people in our community a direct path to the arts.”

About the Artist
In keeping with the hyperlocal feel of Local Wanderer, Orange County Library System turned to a local talent to create a fresh look for this innovative program. Sean Walsh is an Orlando based illustrator and designer. In 2015, he founded Secret Society Goods, a tongue-in-cheek gift shop for the crepuscular underworld. Learn more about Sean and his company at secretsocietygoods.com

Fall Fiber Festival Award winner
A MAKER WITH A PURPOSE
by Vanya Walker, Instructional Technology Specialist
O rlando entrepreneur and activist Victoria Walsh, affectionately known as Macramé Mommom, teaches the joy of making through the art of macramé. Victoria guides students in the creation of classic plant hangers, delicate earrings and intricate wall hangings through engaging workshops. From their first knot to the completion of their unique project, she patiently introduces each new technique. Students enjoy the relaxed, social atmosphere of Macramé Mommom’s workshops and feel the accomplishment of making their own macramé items. She will be among the artists at this year’s Fall Fiber Fest at Orlando Public Library on September 29.
Macramé Mommom uses her love of macramé to bring people together for community service and social justice community art projects. From her first project in 2018, Victoria invites everyone to help create unique street art installations to raise awareness for local groups.
“Tm grateful to tie into the community with immersive urban installations, fiber art education and synergistic creativity,” Victoria told us.
Her “Central Florida Yellow Ribbon Project” wrapped trees in intricate yellow macramé to raise awareness for veterans. From the University of Central Florida to the Maitland Art Center, community members added their knots to the project while appreciating the sacrifice of our veterans. Victoria’s most recent project, “Knots of Love,” brought women together in creating an installation beautifying the fence on the Dinky Line Trail with multi-colored hearts.
In recognition of the contributions of the LGBTQ+ community, Central Florida and in memorial to the victims of the Pulse shooting, Victoria and community volunteers created two rainbow colored street art installations: “Pride Wrap” at Colonial Town Square Park features nine wrapped trees created in a community effort by more than 100 volunteers. In recognition of the contributions of the LGBTQ+ community, Central Florida and in memorial to the victims of the Pulse shooting, Victoria and community volunteers created two rainbow colored street art installations: “Pride Wrap” at Colonial Town Square Park features nine wrapped trees created in a community effort by more than 100 volunteers. Victoria knotted “Pride Pole” in front of The LGBT+ Center Orlando on Mills Avenue, which was later cut down in a presumed hate crime, but the community reacted in support to remake the installation bigger and prouder than the original. In a collaborative effort, 37 members of the LGBTQ+ community and allies “macraMADE” a new wrap dubbed “Pride Pole Redux,” which was installed higher than the original to protect it from vandalism.
From helping students gain a love of making with their hands and raising awareness of local groups through community engagement, Victoria Walsh uses her talents to create a better, more inclusive Orlando. To discover workshops and upcoming street art projects, visit macramemommom.com or stop by the Macramé Mommom table at the Fall Fiber Fest and try your hand at macramé.

ORLANDO CHILDREN’S BUSINESS FAIR
Orlando Public Library
Sunday, November 17, 2-5 p.m.
What do Elon Musk, Mark Zuckerberg, Bill Gates and an Orange County third grader have in common? They are all entrepreneurs who innovate and serve their communities. Join us for the Orlando Children’s Business Fair and together we can invest in the success of the next generation of entrepreneurs. The fair is a one-day marketplace where children will debut their innovative inventions, market their services or products, and build marketing strategies. For more information or to register, visit ocls.info/ocbf.

Registration ends Saturday, October 19.

In 2017, Orange County Library System unveiled new series of camps called "BizKids" which teach entrepreneurship and business skills to youth. The camps provide students with opportunities to develop a business idea, run a storefront and learn office software. Combining these creative skills with the business skills needed to plan, finance, market and sell products, empower youth to become entrepreneurs.

On November 11, 2018, Orlando Public Library presented the Orlando Children's Business Fair, a one-day marketplace to provide a platform for BizKids students to launch their businesses, promote their services or products and build marketing strategies. More than 50 businesses owned by kids ages 6–14 were featured at the fair and close to 800 attendees participated in the event, purchasing products from young vendors who sold artwork, soap, LEGO cars, baked goods, photographic services, handicrafts and more.

We believe that this is the first youth business fair held at a public library in the country. One aspect that makes the Orlando Children’s Business Fair unique is that it is complemented by business classes and camps that are free for residents of Orange County with a library card. These classes are enhanced by classes in fiber arts (sewing, finger knitting), Fab Lab (laser cutting, circuitry, woodworking, 3D printing), arts and crafts and culinary arts which are part of the growing maker / DIY movement.

The library seeks to build upon the success of these programs by introducing the "BizKids Club" in Spring 2020! The club, geared towards middle school aged youth, consists of nine courses on entrepreneurship and business and will include mentorship and nutritious meals. This project is made possible by a generous grant from The Orange County Citizens’ Commission for Children (CCC), a Division of the Orange County Family Services Department. For more information, visit ocls.info/bizkids.

This promotion is for OCLS juvenile cardholders (0–17 years) with a regular, property owner or fee card in good standing while supplies last. In-person check out only. Not valid for previous checkouts. Vouchers are good for a complimentary ticket to an Orlando City Soccer Club game in October 2019 with the purchase of an adult ticket. Vouchers will not be mailed. Voucher may be redeemed online at orlandocitysc.com/ocls.
