FROM THE DIRECTOR

Every year, the Orange County Library System’s Summer Reading Program grows. It’s a labor of love for us to create the hundreds of camps, events, classes and educational opportunities that help kids continue to learn over the summer. This is important because studies show that kids who don’t participate in educational activities in summer don’t retain as much of the information they learn in school. We give parents and caregivers a free, easy way to keep their kids from experiencing that so-called “summer slide” that can result in lower grades during the school year.

But learning — and reading — isn’t just for kids. Adults deserve a chance to enrich their lives with free, accessible library programs, too. That’s why we also put so much emphasis on creating a high-quality Adult Summer Reading Program for our grown-up customers.

All summer long, our libraries host book clubs, art classes, fiber arts classes and special events for adults. See pages 18–19 of this magazine for more information. You can also log your reading and event attendance for a chance to win prizes when summer is over.

Our tagline at the Orange County Library System is Learn. Grow. Connect. Our Summer Reading Program gives library cardholders of all ages ways to learn, grow and connect with ideas, technology and enrichment that can help kids and grown-up customers enrich their lives with free, accessible library programs, too.

OPEN LANGUAGE LAB INCLUDING ESOL
Various Locations
Explore and learn English or another language of your choice via computer-based learning in an Open Language Lab. Choose from ELIIS, Pronunciator, Mango Languages or Rocket Languages.

Do you speak English and have an interest in learning a second or third language?
Visit ocls.info/language for classes, book recommendations and online resources.
Did you know the Orlando Public Library is now offering English from Zero? Located in the heart of downtown, the location will offer the course on Sundays starting June 9. English from Zero is a basic English course for speakers of other languages, no matter the language.

To give you a little more insight on how the course can help, we asked Orange County Library System employee Alibeth Suarez Galindo some questions about her own experience taking English from Zero classes. Originally from Venezuela, Ali is a Questline Reference Assistant and has been with the library for about four years.

How did you find out the library could help with English skills?
A friend told me about classes when I was thinking about attending a community college to take English classes, but it was so expensive. It was hard because there aren’t a lot of affordable resources in the community, but the library offers free classes all the time from online language resources to classes with a teacher.

What was the process of learning the language like?
The teachers were very motivational! We started with basic vocabulary that could be used in a real-world setting—names of objects, house, car, things like that. The first thing I had to do was memorize the vocabulary and then surround myself with English resources, including listening to the radio and watching TV in English. One of the best pieces of advice I was given was to take a basic computer class in English—even if I did not understand all that was being said I could just listen. I knew how the computer worked but because the words were new, I could easily relate that word in English to what I knew the term was in Spanish. I also checked out kids’ books and I was able to learn the sentence structures more easily. After finishing a book, I felt accomplished!

What was the most challenging part of learning English?
That would be understanding the different accents and speeds. Also, getting over my own insecurities when people couldn’t understand what I was saying. I felt embarrassed and frustrated when neither one of us could understand each other. The easiest way to get over those feelings was to just keep trying. Eventually, I knew it was something I had to face and do. Now I work at OCLS and I practice by surrounding myself with the different resources the library has including online like Lynda or Mango. I am still learning, and every day I practice.

What type of advice would you give to other English-language learners?
Practice with everything: radio, TV and asking simple questions at the grocery store. If you struggle with a word, ask the library English instructor for help. You can also find a synonym of the word that you can use instead. The instructors really care, and they want to help. Be patient.

Summer reading doesn’t have to end at childhood. The Orange County Library System’s Adult Summer Reading Program features special summer events for adults, such as book clubs, Cuisine Corner cooking classes, knitting events, art classes and events for crafters. In keeping with our theme, A Universe of Stories, we’ll hold space-themed events, including a celebration of the 50th anniversary of the first humans landing on the moon. And it wouldn’t be a reading program without books, so be sure to download the Beanstack app and log your summer reading for the chance to win prizes when the Summer Reading Program draws to a close on August 3. The following pages feature just a sampling of the wide variety of events we’ll offer this summer. For more information, and to find out more about our Summer Reading Program for kids, tweens and teens, visit ocls.info/srp.

THE MIX

MELROSE IN

THE MIX

by Jim Myers
Melrose Center Department Head

Melrose in the Mix is a live recording session held regularly in the Melrose Center. The series began in April 2017 with a session by Swamp Sistas, a society of women singer/songwriters led by popular roots musician Beth McKee. Since then we’ve hosted 17 sessions, with acts ranging from local hip-hop standouts E-Turn and Sean Shakespeare to beloved Americana singer-songwriter Terri Binion to the classical guitar and oboe duo Belt & Ramirez. The concept brings together three separate elements to make one singular, special event. First, we reach out to local popular musicians and offer to record them in our Audio Studio, performing about 30 minutes of original material. Secondly, we invite the public to attend the performances where they can be part of an intimate audience watching the live recording session as it happens; each session can accommodate up to 24 audience members. Lastly, we give Melrose Members who have gained credentials to use the Audio Studio the opportunity to assist with the engineering of the session under the guidance of Melrose Center staff. The results are often magical and always entertaining.

Our 2019 Melrose in the Mix season kicked off the first weekend in March with two sessions. That Saturday, local band Artefacto blended nuances of alternative rock, pop and electronic music, performing a clutch of powerful songs sung in Spanish. The following day, veteran Orlando singer/songwriter Marc With a C played solo versions of some of his older classics for his loyal fans. Marc’s session will be released as one of the vinyl sides on his upcoming triple album career retrospective. In April, we welcomed critically-acclaimed folk/ singer John Brown, as he performed some songs from his latest album as well as his current project, New York Photo Songs. And last month, Beth McKee, accompanied by her Funky Time Band, played some of her critically-acclaimed music tinged with elements of soul, gospel, blues and rock for another lucky studio audience.

Interested in attending the next Melrose in the Mix? You can save a seat by registering at ocls.info/melroseinthemix. Twenty-four seats fill up quick, so don’t wait!
