Orange County Library System receives national recognition

Library Journal gave a special mention to the Orange County Library System (OCLS) in its 2015 Library of the Year awards program.

This national annual award recognizes innovative libraries that stay on the cutting edge in delivering innovative resources, technology and programming to the communities served. Library Journal sponsors multiple awards to recognize greatness and contributions to the library industry—the highest honor of which is Library of the Year.

Library Director Mary Anne Hodel credited a first-rate staff for earning the honor. "To be recognized nationally by the profession's most respected publication is quite an achievement. It says a lot about the value we bring to our patrons and the great services our staff provide," she said.
